GOD'S VERY COLORFUL CREATION

· WRITTEN BY ·
Tim Thornborough

· ILLUSTRATED BY · Jennifer Davison

How many colors of the rainbow can you name? There are seven. But there are also many, many more colors in the rainbow, because there are so many different kinds of blue and green and yellow and red.

And each one has a different name — light blue, dark blue, middle blue and so on.

This is a book about how God made his very good and very wonderful world, with every shade of the rainbow, and so many more. As you read the words, try to point to the different colors on the page, and discover lots of different names of all the fantastic shades in God's very good and very wonderful world.

God's Very Colorful Creation © The Good Book Company, 2021
Words by Tim Thornborough. Illustrations by Jennifer Davison. Design and art direction by André Parker.

thegoodbook.com • thegoodbook.co.uk • thegoodbook.com.au • thegoodbook.co.nz • thegoodbook.co.in

ISBN: 9781784986339. Printed in India

In the beginning, God created the heavens and the earth.

Everything was dark but God's Spirit was there, getting ready to do something amazing.

And God said,
"Let there be..."

LIGHT!

The light was...

bright and blazing,
shiny and shimmering,
gleaming and glowing.

And the dark was...

dusky,

dim,

and deep.

And on the second day God made the sky and the sea.

The sky was azure and cobalt, periwinkle and powder blue, baby blue and midnight blue.

And the sea was teal and turquoise,
aquamarine and ultramarine,
and sometimes sea-green and gray.